David Bradbury Congratulates Fusion Western Sydney on the opening of their new Centre

Federal member for Lindsay, David Bradbury, today attended the official opening of Fusion Western Sydney's new centre in St Marys.

Mr Bradbury has had a long association with Fusion Western Sydney, officially opening their previous centre over 10 years ago as Penrith City Mayor. Today, he was delighted to see the Fusion community come together to celebrate the amazing transformation of their new centre.

"I am delighted to see the new Fusion Western Sydney Centre officially opened." Mr Bradbury said.

"The tireless work of the Fusion team, their army of volunteers and the local businesses who contributed to this project, is nothing short of inspirational.

"They have poured their hearts, souls and considerable funds into building this project, which will be of great benefit to our community.

"I thank the Fusion team for their invaluable contribution to our local community and I wish them all the very best for the future in their new centre."
